

Glen Moreno

Current Positions

Glen Moreno is Non-Executive Director of Fidelity International Ltd, one of the world's leading investment companies, and Chairman of Xynteo Ltd.

Background Information

Glen Moreno spent over 18 years with Citigroup Inc (1969-1987), holding senior positions in Europe and Asia. He was a member of the group's Policy Committee.

From 1987 to 1991 he was Chief Executive of Fidelity International Limited, where he still serves as a Director and Chairman of the Capital Committee. He led the company's international expansion, including the launch of the hallmark global product range, Fidelity Funds.

Until mid-2009 Mr Moreno was Senior Independent Director of Man Group plc and was involved in the successful demerger of Man's traditional commodities trading business to focus on financial services.

In 2009 he served as Acting Chairman of UK Financial Investments, the organisation created to manage the UK government's investment in troubled banks. From 2005 to 2015 he was Chairman of Pearson plc, a global publishing and educational business, and from 2015 to 2018 he was Chairman of Virgin Money plc.

Mr Moreno has previously held positions as a Senior Independent Director and Deputy Chairman of Lloyds Banking Group plc and Deputy Chairman of the Financial Reporting Council. Until 2017 he was a Director of Grupo Prisa SA, and a Senior Advisor to HSBC Holdings plc.

Other Notable Interests

Glen Moreno is a Governor of the Ditchley Foundation, founded in 1958 to advance Anglo-American links, and which has since broadened to involve nations from all over the world. As an American and British national, he divides his time between the US and the UK.

He is also a Director of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Glen Moreno is based in the US.
